Ultimate Biplane 40

Donald Snyder (South Windsor, Connecticut; email: xx99snyder@cox.net) sent a photo of his Great Planes Ultimate Biplane 40.

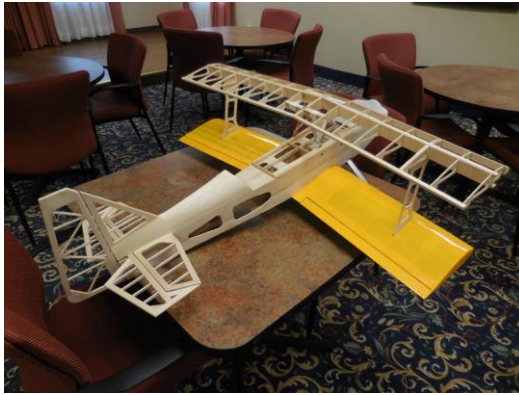

"The kit was a joy to build," he wrote. "I need to actually build something new every year, and this was a good choice."

The Ultimate is powered with an O.S. FS-70 four-cycle glow engine and covered in UltraCote. "Maybe it's a bit overpowered—it's a 'rocket' at high power, but very stable and smooth at low power," Donald noted. "The extra drag of the second wing and struts make for a nice landing without the long approach needed to slow down."

"No need to fear flying biplanes with this one ... it's as easy and gentle as a sport plane."
